SALOON LAW ENFORCED.

Fined for Selling to Habitual Drunkard

Weddings-Bank Elections. Logan, Cache Co., Jan. 14.—The most substantial showing that has been made for a long time in police circles, looking to the enforcement of the city ordinances relating to saloons, was made on Monday when a saloon man was arrested and fined $30 for selling iquor to a habitual drunkard after noice not to sell to him. Justice L. S. Cardon has the support of law-abiding citizens in this his first case. In the past it has too often been the case. that after police have made case against law breakers, the justice has turned the offenders loose with nominal fines that were a parody on

Frank Dalley Expires Without Warning As Result of Shock.

Special Correspondence. Summit, Iron Co., Jan. 13 .- On the night of the 24th of December, 1903, as the people of the ward were prparing to go to the meetinghouse to enjoy the Christimas program, they were greatly shocked on hearing that Frank Dalley was dead. It seemed incredible, because he, his young wife, and a 14year-old boy, were seen to drive into town only a few minutes before. On leaving their home at Enoch they were leading an extra horse behind the buggy, and while on the road the horse they were leading became frightened, lunged and jumped against and over the hind wheel of the buggy, the jar of which threw Frank to the ground, but not hard enough to cause him to loose his hold upon the lines and he brought his team to a sudder stand. He got into the buggy and drove the rest of the way to town seemingly as well and happy as he ever was, never once complaining of being hurt or feeling indisposed in the

On arriving of his father's home he his 50th birthday until a number of assisted his wife to alight and being a friends surprised him by a visit and little late did not go in to greet his boy, Walter Granger, proceeded to take care of the team. On the way to take care of the team. On the way to the barn he greeted his father in his usual cheery manner and went on, tied up his horses and was cutting hay when he suddenly three out his arms, then clasped them to his breast ex-claiming "O my Lord." and fell to the ground. The boy called and the young man's father came immediately to his assistance. They carried him to the house and rubbed him and applied stumulants and warm baths but all to no avail; he never breathed but once after his father reached his side. Deceased was the son of William W. and Margeretta J. Dalley, born Oct. 12, 1883. On the 16th of June last he went to the St. George Temple and he took to wife a very amiable young lady, Nellie Dover, who is heart broken over her loss. What makes it seem more sad for his parents, they had just begun to be reconciled to the loss of their eldest son, William J. Dalley, who died Jan. 5, 1902, five days before he would have been 20 years old. They have the sympathy of the whole community. Dalley were the grandsons of Patriarch
